Who Can Attend:

- P.G./ UG Students from Chemistry, Pharmaceutical Chemistry and Life sciences with optimum level of Knowledge of Chemistry and Biology

Course Overview :

Variety of bio membranes are present in human body, and they perform various essential functions besides structural role, ranging from protecting tissues and cells from foreign molecules, selecting the cellular penetration of compounds with biochemical or physiological role, communication, exchange of information between the extra and intracellular environment, they play specific role in signaling molecules. Bio membranes have a role in cellular homeostasis, metabolism and growth. Any pathological alterations in the structure and functions of bio membranes are often expressed in the etiology of most diseases. Studying the molecular events occurring on cell membranes, as well as the multiplicity of interactions with bioactive compounds, in either physiological or pathological situations, is therefore of paramount importance, to enlarge our knowledge of many diseases and to identify further potential therapeutic targets.

Interactions of drugs and biological compounds with bio membranes are complex phenomena from the chemical or physicochemical point of view. Drug Bio membrane Interactions represent the final stage of reaction in case the site of action for the drug (membrane receptors) is situated on bio membrane or they embodies a barrier to drug passage. Drug membrane interactions are of preliminary type if these interactions only affect the rate of penetration and partitioning of biomolecules in the cytoplasm, to reach a specific target. Both these behavior deserve to be accurately studied and characterized to find answers about the development of novel compounds and to improve upon the efficacy of existing ones.

Permeability of drugs across membranes and the whole cell internalization process, which acts as a decisive factor in drug effectiveness depends upon passive easy diffusion of drug through lipid domains of bio membranes. The whole pharmacodynamics and pharmacokinetics depends upon the diffusion however membrane transporters have valid role, which has been highlighted recently. Still interaction with the cell surface is prerequisite for drug activity. Even the most nonspecific interactions of drug with bio membranes may affect the highly organized lipid compartment and cause changes in the membrane protein conformation and work. These may have adverse or toxic side effects leading into the damage of membrane integrity. Amphiphilic drug molecule may cause disruption and dysfunction of membrane.

Natural bio membranes are complex structures presenting cross connections and complex functionalities. Artificial bio mimetic membrane systems help in understanding the drug membrane interactions, drug activity and toxicity profiles. The proposed certificate course will focus on Bio membrane models and their interactions with drug delivery vehicles.

COURSE OBJECTIVE:

At the end of the course student will be able to

- Define Biomembrane Models
- Utility of Biomembrane models
- Define methods for the synthesis of Biomembrane models
- Describe Drug biomembrane Interactions
